Rice Named Semi-finalist

Principal William Vorwald announced yesterday that Wallace senior Darrel Rice has been named a semi-finalist in the 1968-69 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The 15,000 semi-finalists named throughout the nation will now compete for some 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1969.

Semi-finalists must advance to Finalist standing to be considered for Merit Scholarships, since all winners will be selected from the Finalist group. Top award in Merit Scholarships is $1,500 a year for four college years.

"I was surprised, because my grades weren't as good as they normally are," commented Darrel after he had found out that he was a semi-finalist, "but I knew I had scored pretty high on the test." Darrel has participated in Biology Club, Spanish Club, and has taken extra credit courses in summer school.

Four Attend Boys', Girls' State

Girls' State

"I learned more about understanding people in that week than I have in 17 years," commented senior Chrys Thompson when asked what she and Janice Adank learned at Girls' State. Janice and Chrys attended the 27th session of Hoosier Girls' State as Lew Wallace representatives.

The purpose of the session was to promote a better understanding of government. "In fulfilling the purpose, I found that apathy in our generation is dying," said Janice.

Boys' State

"At Boys' State we really got caught up in the situations around us. At home we let the world problems pass us by, but at Bloomington we gained the incentive and insight to examine them," commented Mike Shaver.

Elections, politicking, and government development were only three of the events in a day at Boys' State. Each day was carefully planned and the boys followed a rigid schedule. "I think it was too rigid because by the end of the week when 6:00 a.m. came up, we couldn't!" said Dave.

Mike said, "The best thing about Boys' State was learning to keep your eyes open for the differences in people." Dave said, "The worst thing was all that marching!"

The Class of '66 chose Sue Plinovich, the Class of '67 selected Barb Barnes, and last year the elected queen was Janice Liedtke. This year it is the Class of '69's turn to chose who will represent them as Homecoming Queen.

Tonight as we meet long-time rival Horace Mann, more than the thought of a team victory will be on everyone's mind, for during half-time festivities, this year's Homecoming Queen will be crowned by Steve Johnson, Senior Class President.

Five girls were nominated by their fellow classmates on Thursday, September 12. Considering the qualifications of poise, character, school spirit, personality, and academic as well as social activities, the Senior Class has chosen the following girls to be the 1969 Homecoming Court.

Candidates

Serving Wallace for three years as a varsity cheerleader and functioning as last year's Student Council treasurer are just two extra-curricular activities of senior candidate Janice Adank. Besides representing Wallace at this year's Girls' State Convention held during summer vacation at Indiana University, Janice was class secretary her freshman year and is also the business manager of the Philosopher.

Appropriately, the Homecoming Chairman is this year also a member of the Court. Nancy Bozich has been an active member of Student Council, Girls' Club, and served as the freshman class treasurer three years ago.

Candidate for Football-O-Rama Queen, member of G.A.A., Girls' Club, Inkpots, and "Les Parisiens," plus the office of Student Council secretary are some of the accomplishments of Sue Schacki. Sue has been an active member of Student Council for four years and was chosen as class secretary her sophomore year.

Marching in front of Wallace's band at home games for two years as a majorette and attending Student Council, Girls' and Booster Club meetings are some of the ways Chrys Thompson serves Lew Wallace. Not only was Chrys freshman vice-president, but she also represented Wallace at this year's Girls' State Convention in Bloomington.

Reserve and varsity cheerleading, member of Booster Club, G.A.A., Girls' Club, and last year's Student Council secretary are some of the activities of Shirley Yovanoff. Besides being a member of Senior Honor Society and having been elected as class president her first year at Wallace, Shirley was a member of the Philosopher staff last year and is assistant editor of Quill and Blade this year.

Pep Rally and Homecoming Dance

Junedale Little League field was the site of the traditional pep rally last night at 6:45 p.m. Not only did Wallace students greet the Court and their chosen escorts, but the coaches introduced the Hornet varsity football team. Before the night was over, all those attending stood before a huge bonfire and cheered the team in preparation for tonight's game.

After the game, all Wallace students are invited to join the Queen, her Court, and the Hornet team in the main gym for the Homecoming celebration. Footballs and figures of players will decorate the walls as "The Upperclass," winners of Ward's "Battle of the Bands," provides live music from 9-10:30 p.m.

Homecoming Committees

Nancy Bozich is general chairman and serving under her is senior Dave Barnes, who is in charge of securing convertibles and drivers for the procession at Gilroy Field. Senior Michelle Goetz is committee head with the responsibility of having the football which the Queen will receive autographed by the team, and of purchasing the pendants for the Court. Flowers for the girls are being obtained by junior Marianne Ziza.

Juniors Nancy Davies and Kyle Stevens are co-chairmen of the dance which will be held after tonight's game in the main gym. In charge of hiring the band is Jeff Ross, also a junior.

Senior Chrys Thompson headed the publicity committee for the dance. Committee members are sophomores Georgian Mandon, Caryn McQuilkin, and Patti Vance.

Football which will decorate the gym and halls are the responsibility of Decorations Committee chairman Shirley Yovanoff. Members of her committee are senior Janice Adank, and junior Karen Bell.

Girls' Club Helps Frosh Belong

Are freshman girls uncertain about high school life? They shouldn't be after last week's Freshman Week.

"The purpose of Freshman Week was to make the girls feel that they belong," remarked Girls' Club president Jackie Czubik.

Assembly Style Show

Freshman Week began Monday, September 9, with a style show first hour in the auditorium. School clothes, ranging from what to wear to the Prom to what is appropriate for school, were modeled. Senior Gloria Galetka narrated the show, which was followed by a pep session led by the cheerleaders.

Girl Talk

An opportunity to meet the student leaders of the school was given to the freshmen at "Girl Talk," held Wednesday after school. Girls' Club officers explained the activities of the club as milk and donuts were served. Homeroom 41, last year's winner of the Girls' Club Sing, presented a skit. Debby Foler, senior, sang folk songs, followed by another pep session. Chairman of this activity was senior Shirley Yovanoff.

Mother-Daughter Tea

Cookies and tea were served at the Mother-Daughter Tea held Thursday after school in the cafeteria.

Junior Nancy Davies, chairman, said the purpose of the tea was to "help the girls get acquainted with their class sponsors." For entertainment, sophomore Nina Jacobs did a piano solo and Linda Jones and Karin Opacich, both juniors, played guitar.

Get Acquainted Day

Small booklets to gather names of senior girls were used for "Get Acquainted Day" on Friday, September 13. The three girls with the highest number of signatures were awarded free passes to all home football games. Junior Linda Jones made arrangements for the day.

Seniors Study On Campus

Seniors Jake Pruitt and Mike Mehay spent part of their summers studying at universities, while participating in special programs designed for high school seniors.

Mike commented, "I found the collegiate atmosphere, although different, quite adaptable."

While staying at the Indiana University campus in Bloomington, Jake studied German and art appreciation. His program began June 19 and continued for 8 weeks. During this time he received 8 hours of college credit.

"Operation Catapult" was the name of the program that Mike attended at Rose Polytechnic Institute in Terre Haute. It was a four-week, non-credit program, set up to acquaint interested high school seniors with college life and to give them a better understanding of the field of engineering. Mike's course consisted of subjects such as computer design and programing, numerical analysis, and topics in physics and chemistry.

"There is a great deal to be said for the freedom and lack of strict rule in this situation," Mike commented.

Jake added, "This experience should be something that more students get because you really get a good idea of university life."

'Spirit Week' Tops Council Plans

"Fantastic" is the word Student Council President Kathy Wise used to describe the Indiana University Workshop she and senior representative Janice Adank attended this summer.

The purpose of the workshop was to discuss Council problems at various schools and to exchange ideas for social activities.

Philosopher Opinion

A Student Newspaper--For You

For several years, the high school newspaper consisted mainly of gossip columns, articles covering club news, and scattered, though often poorly written, news and sports stories. The paper was read, but no one had much respect for what it said, and eventually, the staff found they were operating at a loss. It was time for a change.

After the student editors had met with their sponsor and set up a list of new standards for their publication, they started to work on a major overhaul. Gossip columns were replaced with student opinion polls, a fashion column, and humorous features. Club news was written so that all organizations would be represented; news stories could once more be distinguished from feature stories; in-depth coverage of a wide variety of subjects culminated in a rather unique issue covering the Presidential primary; and sports stories with a positive outlook replaced what had been offered in the past. In addition, a new method of distribution was devised.

Sales soon doubled and there was no question that the paper was being widely read. Students and faculty listened and, in some cases, argued with what the Philosopher said. At the end of the year the staff discovered that they had not only balanced their books, but had come out ahead.

A step had been made in the right direction, but the editors wanted more and decided they wouldn't settle for just having a good paper—they wanted a newspaper in which not only the staff would have a voice, but a paper which represented all of the students—what they wanted to hear about in and outside of the classroom, and what they thought about some of the things the paper reported and commented on. What they wanted was truly a student newspaper. Again, it was time for a change.

A short history of the Philosopher? Yes, but more than this, a challenge. We of the Philosopher are offering the student body a chance to express its opinion, through letters to the editor, or, if a controversial issue should arise, through a guest editorial expressing a dissenting opinion as written by a responsible spokesman. We're determined to have a student paper which "tells it like it is," but we can't do it without the help of the student—without you.

A student newspaper should, through an exchange between the staff and readers, express the opinions of those attending the school, but this is impossible if the students don't care enough, or don't take the time to speak up and be heard.

It really is up to you!

BUSY SUMMER FOR JOURNALISTS

This summer Philosopher staff members explored mass communications through workshops offered by three different universities and tours of NBC and WCFL in Chicago.

Philosopher co-editor Linda Wineinger and advertising manager Cathy Vavrak, seniors, attended a journalism workshop at Indiana University.

Co-editor Jim Eng, senior, was appointed editor-in-chief of a paper put out by students at the University of Wisconsin summer journalism workshop. Jim also spent several hours a day working on a film produced by a radio-television class.

To further explore the broadcasting media, five students and Philosopher advisor Mr. John Hancock toured WMAQ radio and television (NBC) and WCFL radio in Chicago on August 30.

Various aspects of television production were explained by an NBC news writer. Students also observed from the control room as the noon news with Jorie Lueloff and Charles Heath was produced.

In summing up the workshop Janice said, "It gave me insight to my duties as a representative and I wish everyone could go!"

Council Plans

While at the workshop Kathy and Janice formulated new ideas concerning the year's activities. In addition to the traditional events such as stag dances and the Inaugural Ball, this year Student Council will sponsor Spirit Week.

Spirit Week will be held during basketball season. Activities will include the decorating of the school by the four classes. Each class will have the following areas: Freshmen—West Building; Sophomores—First Floor Main; Juniors—Third Floor Main; and Seniors—Second Floor Main.

Other activities of the week will be a day dedicated to each class and one day for the entire school. Concluding the week will be the presenting of a rotating award for the most spirited class.

Students To See College Life

To familiarize college-bound students with the four major Indiana universities is the purpose of College Night to be held at Lew Wallace on Thursday, October 10, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Representatives from Purdue, Indiana, Ball State, and Indiana State will present short talks on their schools.

After this brief orientation in the main auditorium, there will be two sessions in which students and their parents may visit two of the four schools. During this time questions concerning tuition, housing, financial aid, or grants may be asked.

Throughout the year various colleges will be visiting Lew Wallace during the day. Included are Dayton University, Friday, September 20, in the Auditorium Alcove at 12:00 p.m. and Roosevelt University, Wednesday, October 17, at 11:30 a.m.

Purdue University is sponsoring a High School Day, Saturday, October 12 at the Lafayette Campus. Reservations should be made with any counselor by Wednesday, October 2. For further information, contact Mr. Vaughn or Mr. Savin.

Gain 11 New Teachers

Each year new teachers start as instructors at Lew Wallace in a wide range of subjects. This year, in departments such as general business, physical education, math, art, science, and industrial arts, eleven new teachers have started at Wallace.

Playing in the Gary Symphony and directing the Musicians Union Concert Band are two pastimes of Mr. Paul Chilson, band teacher. Mr. Chilson is a graduate of Chicago Musical College and Cosmopolitan Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Irvin Elser, art teacher, is the freshman football coach at Lew Wallace this year. Mr. Elser is a graduate of Indiana State University and taught at Horace Mann before transferring to Wallace.

A trip to the East Coast was part of Miss Linda Fiddler's summer vacation. Miss Fiddler, physical education teacher, enjoys tennis and is a graduate of Indiana University.

"Lew Wallace is the best school in the city!" stated Mr. William Jamski, mathematics teacher. This is Mr. Jamski's first year of teaching. Last year he student taught under Mr. Hill.

Miss Jean Kadish's interest in physical fitness has led her to achieve the white belt in judo. Miss Kadish, typing and general business teacher, is a graduate of Indiana University.

Mr. David Koval, typing and general business teacher, graduated from Winona State College in Winona, Minnesota. Mr. Koval lettered in college football, and he is still an avid fan of the sport.

Drawing, sketching, reading, and music are some of the hobbies of Miss Barbara Kubiak, freshman English teacher. Miss Kubiak graduated from Indiana University and taught at Bailly, prior to coming to Wallace.

All sports, especially golf, interest Mr. Kenneth Moreton, industrial arts teacher. Mr. Moreton received his degrees at Purdue and Ball State.

Collecting records and tapes are favorite interests of Mr. R. Gary Overmyer, bio-physics teacher. Mr. Overmyer is a graduate of Indiana University.

Attending jazz concerts and art exhibits are favorite activities of Miss Lillian Porter, art teacher. Miss Porter graduated from Indiana University and this is her first year of teaching art on a high school level.

A new addition to the English Department is Mr. Howard Schmid, who taught at Tolleston High before coming to Lew Wallace. Bowling and bridge are two activities which Mr. Schmid especially enjoys.

Senior Goes To Mexico

By Evette Babich

How about eight weeks without uttering a word of English? Sounds rough, but that's exactly what Linda Dzunda, senior, and 28 other high school students from Indiana did in Mexico this summer.

After taking tests, filling out forms, and being interviewed by the Indiana University Honors Program staff, 28 Spanish speaking students from Indiana were selected to take the trip to San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

As Linda recalls, "We were all scared at the prospect of living with a strange family, but after getting there, we felt right at home." Linda stayed with the Gerling family while also attending classes 5 days a week from 9:00 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. and 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Among the classes were reading, speech, grammar, and current events, all spoken in Spanish.

Some of the highlights of Linda's trip were going to the Hemisfair while en route to Mexico, going to Guanajuato to see mummies, and to Mexico City to the bull fights.

"The only handicap of my stay was not being able to drink water directly from the faucet," Linda recalls. "The food was different, but tasty."

"Odd Couple" Entertains

by Debby Foler

A few years ago Neil Simon, one of America's brightest playwrights, penned a new comedy which he aptly labeled, "The Odd Couple." After a lengthy and very successful run in New York, the film makers had an original idea: why not make "The Odd Couple" into a movie?

They bought the rights, asked Mr. Simon to collaborate on the screenplay, paired Jack Lemmon with Walter Matthau, and turned out a very funny, entertaining film.

"The Odd Couple" begins as Felix, portrayed by Lemmon, is on the verge of suicide over a marital separation. His poker buddies are wondering why he is late for the game when Oscar, the evening's host, receives a phone call from Felix's wife. Felix finally arrives, very distressed, and it's amusing to see his pals acting "natural," pretending they know nothing. The trouble and fun begin when Felix moves in with Oscar: a hypochondriac and cleaning fanatic living with a perpetual slob!

Lemmon and Matthau are masters in their roles. They both have the innate ability to time dialogue and antics for the best comic effect, and they work extremely well together. The original script was left almost intact, a very unusual feature in any movie version.

For a good laugh, a visit with "The Odd Couple" is worthwhile. But don't expect any hidden messages or deep meanings. It is the type of movie to enjoy and to appreciate for the evening and to forget the next day!

Netmen Hopeful

by Jerry Mancilla

"I expect to win 'em all," was all Mr. Nick Day, coach of the Lew Wallace tennis team, had to say about this year's tennis matches. And with six returning lettermen, what else can a coach say?

Rusty Goad and Bob Johnson, both seniors, head this year's netters. Johnson, a four-year letterman, has placed second in the 1967 conference championship. Sparky Rusty Goad, also a four-year letterman, returns this year, having won third place in both the 1966 and the 1967 conference championships.

Goad and Johnson "are just as good as Lopez," commented Coach Day. Lopez was second best netter in the state last year before he graduated.

NOTICE

Mr. Alfred Smith, assistant principal, has requested students to use Pierce Street when walking home from football games at Gilroy Stadium, explaining that it is better lighted and patrolled than the route through Gleason Park used by many students.

Mr. Smith also suggested that parents picking up students at Gilroy arrive at the West Gate about ten minutes before the game ends (around 9:00 p.m.).

CHEERLEADERS NAMED FOR '68

After a summer of practice, written tests, and tryouts, the cheerleaders for the 1968-69 season were chosen in July by Miss Angela Hannagan, cheerleading sponsor, and by past cheerleaders. The varsity squad includes seniors Janice Adank, Cathy Vavrak, Nancy Holok, Shirley Yovanoff, Linda Sams, and junior Linda Jones.

Leading the reserves are Jackie Czubik and Linda Vavrak, seniors, and Doris Hope, Karin Opacich, Kyle Stevens, and Georgene Terzes, juniors.

Hornets Expect Winning Season

by Mike German

Tonight, the Lew Wallace Hornets take on the Horsemen of Horace Mann in the Homecoming game at 7:15. Horace Mann with its record of 1-1, has speed and size, but the loss of three senior Conference all-stars should work against them.

The Hornets, who own a 20-13-3 overall record against Horace Mann and who are now 1-1 in conference play, should find the Horsemen an "above-average" opponent, but the talents of senior quarterback Bob Buha and center Mike Milich, also a senior, should give the Hornets a Homecoming victory.

In a spectacular opening of the Gary Football-O-Rama, the Hornets led the "South" team to a 20-7 victory over the "North," racking up 14 points, more than all other schools combined.

During the tense Valpo game, the two touchdowns made by senior quarterback Bob Buha and junior fullback Tom Harris failed to keep the Vikings from rallying in the last two minutes of the game to win 14-13.

With bad luck taking a holiday, the Hornets defeated Froebel 39-25 in a quick, high-scoring game last Friday. After a touchdown early in the first quarter by junior fullback Tom Harris, who later scored two more touchdowns, the Hornets surged ahead to bring their season record to 1-1. Jim Eloff, senior halfback, was responsible for two touchdowns, while John Sikora, also a senior halfback, scored the remaining touchdown.

When head Coach Larry Martin was asked after the Valpo game how the team should do this season he was optimistic: "Team and school spirit are 100% "

As for any predictions, however, Coach Martin declined to crystal-gaze. "We'll just take each game as it comes along," he announced. Andrean and perhaps Hobart may be tough opponents, according to past records, but the Hornets should easily finish off the season with a majority of games won.

Bill Slama, who was taken to Mercy Hospital after receiving a head injury during the Froebel game, is now out of the hospital and recuperating at home. The senior halfback should be back in school in a few weeks, provided he gets as much rest as possible. For this reason, students are discouraged from visiting Bill at home.
