

HOMECOMING '69!!!

RALLY HELD AT JUNEDALE

by Nancy Hahn

Hornet fans were prepared "spirit"-ually for tonight's Homecoming game with Emerson at a pep rally held last night at 7:00 p.m. The rally was held at Joe Eckert (Junedale) Field.

Candidates for the position of 1969-70 Homecoming queen arrived at the pep rally on a float sponsored by Student Council. The candidates were then introduced to the crowd.

The traditional presentation of the Hornet football team was another highlight of the pep session.

Guest speaker at the rally was Skip Lazzaro, a 1965 graduate of Lew Wallace.

"Let's communicate" says Mr. Christoff

by Bill Kryston

"Open and total communication" says Lew Wallace's new principal, Mr. Christ Christoff, "can accomplish our goal of making the school an academic, social, and cultural center for the student."

"When you consider all the money that has gone into the school for renovation," continued the Gary Froeb graduate, "you understand why it has to be more than an academic facility."

One step in the new principal's plan would involve direct communication between himself and the student body. "This can work," he said, "if the students are concerned enough to make meaningful suggestions and criticisms."

BANDS AND CONSTRUCTION

When asked if more live bands at social functions wouldn't induce students to participate, he replied, "Bands require payment and we cannot limit a student's opportunity to attend these dances because of limited funds. Such extra-curricular activities in today's public schools should not cost the students."

Commenting on construction, Mr. Christoff said, "Lew Wallace is faced with two major challenges. First, we must provide the student with the best possible education under the existing circumstances and secondly we have to decide what use will be made of the new facilities, once they are completed."

NEW IDEAS

Asked if the new building would also house new educational ideas, he replied, "We are now in a period of re-evaluation. Eventually we will see a change that will adapt the school to the needs of society."

On racial tension at Lew Wallace, he remarked, "There has been no trouble this year and we feel this will continue if students bring their problems to us. We at Lew Wallace want the best possible education for all the students."

In conclusion, Mr. Christoff said he has been most impressed by the Lew Wallace faculty and student body. Their cooperation has been "outstanding and has made my job very enjoyable."

Queen crowned tonite

by Nancy Hahn

During halftime at the Homecoming game tonight, the presentation and crowning of the 1969 Homecoming queen will take place. The queen will be chosen from five candidates: Linda Jones, Jeanette Lewandowski, Shirley Spak, Kyle Stevens, and Georgene Terzes.

These girls were selected by the senior class last Friday from a list of all senior girls. Final voting took place this week, with students casting ballots when they purchased tickets for the game.

The five candidates will arrive at Gilroy Field on a float sponsored by Student Council. The queen will be crowned on the float and presented with a gold football pendant, a football autographed by the team, and flowers. Her court will receive silver pendants and flowers.

LINDA JONES

Linda, a varsity cheerleader for two years at Wallace, is also President of Booster Club, a Student Council representative, member of Honor Society, and co-editor of this year's Philosopher. During the summer she attended a Journalism Seminar at Indiana University, Bloomington.

Outside school, Linda's activities range from playing piano and guitar to sports, of which swimming and skating are her favorites.

Referring to Linda, Marilyn Hrnjak, junior, described her as "down to earth." Caryn McQuilkin, junior, described her as "a hard worker" and senior Doris Hope simply called her "the most."

Escorting Linda tonight will be Rich Svihra.

JEANETTE LEWANDOWSKI

In describing candidate Jeanette Lewandowski, junior, Jo Ellen Greco found her "very sociable," and senior Lucinda Macko referred to her as "vivacious."

At Wallace, Jeanette's activities include membership in Booster Club, G.A.A., and Girls' Club.

Some of Jeanette's activities outside school center around sports, especially tennis, basketball, and swimming. When asked why she is drawn to these particular sports, Jeanette commented, "I like the action involved."

Jeanette's escort for tonight is Tim Armato.

SHIRLEY SPAK

Working with mentally retarded children at Kuny and Webster schools is one activity of candidate Shirley Spak. During the summer, Shirley attended Indiana University, Bloomington, as a facet of her work with the Association for Retarded Children.

At Wallace, Shirley's extra-curricular activities include membership in Booster Club and Auditorium Council. She also serves on Student Council.

Descriptions of Shirley by Wallace students include the following:

Marilyn Hrnjak, junior, described her as "vivacious," Kathy Bell, junior, referred to her as "friendly," and Steve Palumbo, senior, called her "energetic."

Escorting Shirley tonight will be George Fogel.

KYLE STEVENS

In describing candidate Kyle Stevens, Joni Wineinger, junior, finds her "very sincere." Dave Tipton, junior, says that she is "one of the nicest people I've ever met," and Lynn Truchan, junior, described her as "funny and friendly."

Outside of school, Kyle enjoys sewing as a hobby. She commented, "It's something to do, and it's economical." She is making her own gown for Homecoming.

A varsity cheerleader this year, Kyle was on the reserve squad during her junior year. She is Secretary-Treasurer of Inkpots and is a member of Auditorium Council and Girls' Club. Kyle also serves on Student Council.

Escorting Kyle at tonight's festivities will be Joe Langel.

Lew Wallace's 38th annual Homecoming festivities get underway tonight at 7:15 as Coach Larry Martin's Hornets (1-2) clash with the Tornado of Emerson (0-2). The game will be played at Gilroy Field. Following the game will be the Homecoming dance, which is to be held in the main gym.

In previous games against Emerson, Wallace has proved successful, defeating the Tornado 10 straight times and owning a 19-16-3 series edge in the 38 year old rivalry.

While both the Hornets and the Tornado failed to score at this year's Football-O-Rama, Emerson was routed 41-0 in the 1967 Wallace Homecoming game. Last year Wallace again stunned Emerson with an 18-0 score.

Earlier this year, when asked to comment on tonight's game, Hornet Coach Larry Martin said, "Due to our success in the past few years, we have a tendency to let down against Emerson. This year they are bigger and stronger than usual."

HOMECOMING DANCE

After the game tonight the traditional Homecoming dance will take place, with music to be provided by "Brotherhood, Inc." The dance will end at 10:30.

Highlighting tonight's dance will be the presence of the newly crowned Homecoming queen and her court.

Senior Chris Alexander headed the Decorations Committee, while Karin Oprich, also a senior, was in charge of publicity.

Cornelius Stewart, senior, handled ticket plans, and Kyle Stevens, senior, arranged for the band.

Cloakroom plans were taken care of by junior Jo Ellen Greco. Senior Georgene Terzes arranged for chaperones.

GEORGENE TERZES

Working at Camp Goodfellow this past summer has been one activity of candidate Georgene Terzes. "I like working with people, and I enjoy outdoor activities," commented Georgene.

In school, Georgene is a varsity cheerleader, having been a member of the reserve squad in her sophomore and junior years. She is a member of Girls' Club, serves on Auditorium Council, and is Secretary of Student Council.

Georgian Mandon, junior, refers to Georgene as "very friendly, so that she makes you feel important." Dave Tipton, junior, says that she is "dependable."

HOMECOMING ARRANGEMENTS

Homecoming preparations were arranged by Student Council. General chairman was Linda Jones, senior.

Linda Hodges and Caryn McQuilkin, juniors, were in charge of preparing the list of senior girls for voting. Senior Karin Opacich was in charge of the Homecoming float.

Junior Marilyn Hrnjak handled the plans for the pendants and football. Flowers were arranged for by senior Marianne Ziza.

IMPATIENT?

by Bernadette Pawlik

Did you come to school September 3 to find the teachers' parking lot complete but the East Building lecture room where you were supposed to have Safety nonexistent?

Along with dusty shoes and muddled homerooms, this is one of the problems caused by Lew Wallace's construction program. The new completion date for the planned East Building lecture room has been estimated for the end of this semester.

According to Principal Christ Christoff, the new facility will be used as a combination classroom and speakers' hall.

Targeted for completion by the end of this year is the installation of new lockers on the first and second floors of the Main Building.

In the renovated East Building, Mr. Christoff said that he hopes that a six-room shop complex, art, and driver's training rooms will also be finished by the end of this year.

Three tour Europe

by Charmaine Costo

Rome, London, Paris — How would you like to visit these cities and many more? Several Wallace students did just that this past summer.

Jerry Vargo, junior, and sophomores Jeni-Lynn Deal and Lillian Dowdell spent part of their summers visiting several European countries.

Of all the places Jerry visited, Israel was his favorite "because it was the most modern, the people were nice and friendly, and it's a beautiful country with much interesting and Biblical history behind it."

VARIETY OF FOODS

"I enjoyed the variety of cuisines. There was always an element of surprise when I received my meal" was one of the comments that Jeni-Lynn Deal made about her vacation in Europe which started June 14 and ended July 16.

Jeni-Lynn went with her parents and was able to visit fifteen cities in eleven different countries. Among the cities she visited were Paris, Zurich, Munich, Copenhagen, Dublin, and London. She went to several museums as well as numerous famous places.

Lillian Dowdell's vacation took her to such cities as Rome, Madrid, Florence, Venice, Lucerne, Paris, and London. She went with an ICES (International Cultural Exchange Schools) group.

Summing up the three travelers' feelings, Lillian remarked, "This past summer was the most wonderful summer of my life. Being able to see and experience all the things I read about in history books was fascinating."

Yearbook to change

by Pam Makivich

"It will provide better coverage and there will be improvements made in this annual," replied Karin Opacich, editor of the 1969-1970 Quill and Blade, when asked about fall distribution of the yearbook.

"We would like to experiment because we feel that such distribution has more advantages that students are not aware of and most schools our size are converting," said Karin.

Four weeks of concentrated sales campaign will be used for the selling of the annual, beginning next Monday, September 29; the first week will deal with visual campaign. The staff hopes to have an assembly to help promote sales sometime during this first week.

The following two weeks will be used to sell subscriptions. The final week is a clean-up week in which late students will have a chance to purchase an annual but there will be a penalty charge.

The annual will be larger (forty-eight more pages) and it may feature five colored pictures within eight pages or more. It will feature pictures, school activities, and construction.

Another change will be the direct selling of the annual by the Quill and Blade staff members.

Philosopher Opinion

Something bothering you?

Something bothering you? Something you would like to discuss with the rest of the school? Why not let us know about it?

The Philosopher staff hopes that the newspaper can serve as a way for all teachers, administration, and students to voice their opinions and discuss problems. This way, we can all understand each other better. As Mr. Christoff remarked in the story on page one, open and total communication between all members of Lew Wallace is the only way we can work as a group.

As a student newspaper, the Philosopher is representative of you, an individual, no matter what your views may be. What we, the members of the staff are asking, is involvement — let Lew Wallace know what is on your mind.

For your convenience, a wooden box has been placed in the alcove. Letters to the editor, any original forms of writing, and news of which the Philosopher may not be aware can be placed in this box at any time. We do ask that all letters be signed in order to be printed.

Council Corner

It's your school

by Nancy Davis
Council President

We all know there is a lack of school spirit at Lew Wallace and that classes and halls are overcrowded. We need better student relationships and we need more pep rallies to back our team. What can you do about it? You are a student at Lew Wallace and have a right to voice your opinions at the Student Council meetings.

The Student Council meetings are held on alternating Wednesdays. They are open to all students and we strongly encourage participation from all non-Council members.

Student Council is now trying a new idea to better itself. It has formed a Steering Committee, organized to discuss major problems of both the Council and the school. It consists of class officers, Student Council officers, and members-at-large. The Steering Committee meets regularly with Mr. Christoff.

We will also try harder to reach the entire student body, but cannot do it alone. We need your help.

Bring your suggestions to the meetings. If you can't make it to a meeting, write any criticism or suggestion you have on a piece of paper and give it to any Council member.

Let your opinions, criticisms, suggestions, or praise be known. Wallace is your school.

College night in October

by Bill Kryston

Indiana's major universities will again be represented at College Night, to be held at Lew Wallace on Wednesday, October 8, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Questions concerning tuition, housing, financial aid and other information will be answered by representatives of Indiana, Purdue, Ball State, Indiana State, and for the first time, Vincennes. Also in attendance will be the Calumet extension of Purdue and Indiana University Northwest Campus.

After a brief orientation in the main auditorium, students and their parents may attend half hour sessions of two of the five schools.

Counselors advise that now is the time for college-bound students and their parents to ask questions of schools in which they are interested. Contact Mrs. Von Horn or Mr. Savin for further information.

Ligocki is Semi-finalist

by Cornelius Stewart

Wallace senior Randal Ligocki has been named a semi-finalist in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The 15,000 semi-finalists throughout the nation will compete for some 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in May of 1970.

When asked his reaction to the announcement that he was a semi-finalist Randy said, "My first reaction was normal, common, self-centered, egotistical pride. After this subsided, my next impression was merely worry over how I was going to answer the cliché questions which would be asked of me."

Semi-finalists must advance to the Finalist standing to be considered for the Merit Scholarships awarded next spring. The scholarships range from $1,000 for one year to the top award of $1,500 a year for four years in any accredited U. S. college or university.

We Predict . . .

. . . by January, students will be bussed from the Main to the East and West Buildings.
. . . only sign language will be used in the classrooms because of the noise outside.
. . . Dodge Fever will erupt in early spring.
. . . the school will buy Mr. Carpenter squeakless chalk.
. . . attendance at minor sports will increase by one this year.
. . . that we will win our Homecoming game tonight.
. . . that Mr. Chaney will finally agree women are equal.
. . . that the 1969 Homecoming Queen will be crowned with an Imperial Margarine Crown.
. . . that Coach Rykovich will replace Vince Carter and become Gomer's new sergeant.
. . . that the workmen will excavate the remains of a gigantic prehistoric hornet on the school grounds.
. . . the drama class will present "Hair" as its major production.
. . . that next year we'll need 20 minutes to get to our classes.
. . . that in the year 1984 all construction on Lew Wallace will be finished and we won't be able to stand the silence.
. . . girls will be sent home for short hair.

Here's One That Didn't Get Away

by Grant Jones

What would you do if you found an 8' 11" 315 pound bull shark on the end of your fishing line? If you're not quite sure, ask Corliss Rogers, sophomore. She caught one!

The whole ordeal took place this summer while Corliss was deep-sea fishing off the coast of Miami with her family.

Corliss, who only weighs 117 pounds, was very excited when the fish hit her line. Her family held her aboard the boat while the boat's captain and first mate advised her on how to land the shark.

During the landing of the shark, which took approximately two hours, Corliss could only follow the crew's advice and hold on to her fishing rod, which was strapped to her.

When Corliss saw what she had caught, she really became frightened because she would have been ". . . happy to catch a smaller fish!"

Unfortunately, due to the cost of having the shark stuffed ($895), Corliss could only bring home memories of her experience.

What would you do if you found an 8' 11" 315 pound bull shark on the end of your fishing line?

NEW COURSES OFFERED IN '69

by Rod Johnson

Along with the "new look" at Wallace come two new semester courses: Social Problems and Afro-American History.

Social Problems, taught by Miss Conwell and Coach Jennings, deals in depth with American society, its diversities, problems, and aspirations. The course is largely discussion by teacher and students, along with some text work.

The object of the course, as described by Miss Conwell, is "to get people to relate to themselves and to better understand others . . ."

One of the few problems encountered by Miss Conwell in teaching the course has been getting students to voice their personal opinions on topics.

Afro-American History, taught by Mr. Carpenter, primarily studies the history of the black people in America.

Mr. Carpenter, a former Peace Corps volunteer, hopes the course will better enable students to see the various contributions people of African descent have made to the American society.

Lectures by former Peace Corps members stationed in Africa are among the projects being arranged by Mr. Carpenter in order to add depth to the course.

Reviews at Random

by Dave Bellich

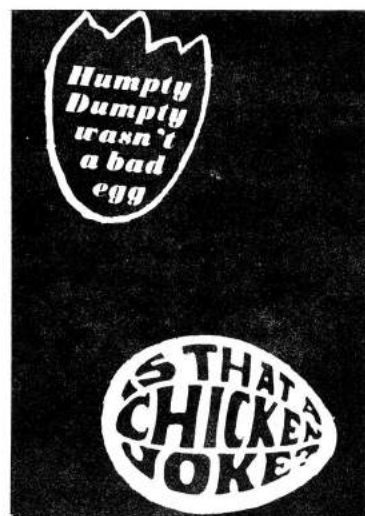

Four nice kids living their last summer of adolescence take the step into the "ugly" world of adults.

This is the main theme of Evan Hunter's unforgettable novel Last Summer. Mr. Hunter brings out his best literary art in this novel as he did in The Blackboard Jungle.

Last Summer is a story about four teens: Dave, Pete, Rhoda, and Sandy. They all meet on their summer vacation and build a world that only they can live in, a world which contains cruelty and a touch of sex.

There are many meaningful and funny parts in the book, such as the episodes with the seagull and the "truth games," and a violent ending which brings a close to the summer.

Although Last Summer may be considered a shocking novel by a few, I highly recommend it. Even though the novel is written for the younger generation, adults should read it also.

In 'Nam' you carry your gun to class

by Garry Haggerty

Fred Spicer teaches English and he carries a gun while doing it. This is no reflection on the discipline of his students, however. Spicer, a 1968 Lew Wallace graduate, instructs a class of South Vietnamese. Currently in the Navy, he teaches two nights a week under the auspices of the Vietnamese American Association.

"I really love to teach these people because it's a challenge," he wrote to Wallace faculty member recently.

He finds the members of his class are "anxious and eager to learn." Their ages range from 13-43 years, and among them is a soldier in the South Vietnamese Army. "Surprisingly enough," said Spicer, "he is my best student."

Stationed in Da Nang as a radioman, Spicer feels Vietnam "isn't all that bad . . . once you get used to rockets, mortars, sniper fire (which motivated him to carry the loaded .45 to class), hot weather, the horrible stench, and the people."

Concerning the war, he writes that he feels it "is right and that the people do want to learn, and that not all parts of this war are bad."

However, he doesn't particularly care for President Nixon's withdrawal plan as it is now proposed. "I get left out," he wrote. His unit would be among the last withdrawn under the present proposal.

2 former teachers return

Gain 7 new teachers

by Lisa Juarez
and Cornelius Stewart

Lew Wallace gains several new teachers each year, and 1969-70 is no exception. Seven new teachers and two former teachers have been added to the faculty.

MRS. SACHA

Returning to Lew Wallace to teach in the Science Department is Mrs. Carolyn Sacha, formerly Miss Carolyn Levon.

A graduate of Ball State, Mrs. Sacha last taught at Lew Wallace in June of 1966. She left teaching and began working as a stewardess for American Airlines. On June 21 this past summer, Mrs. Sacha was married.

Besides traveling, Mrs. Sacha lists skiing, swimming, and sewing among her interests.

Asked if she had noticed a difference at Wallace besides the construction she replied, "There seems to be a better communication between the teachers and students. Students don't seem to be proving themselves to the teachers."

Mrs. Sacha plans to continue her education. Where she plans to study depends on her husband, who is studying in the medical profession.

MISS DUBIEL

Teaching at the high school level for the first time is Miss Arlene Dubiel, French teacher.

Miss Dubiel has traveled through Europe and the Middle East and has worked on French translations. She taught English for the General Electric Company of France.

Her educational background includes attending school at D'Youville College in Buffalo, New York; Middlebury College in Vermont; and the Sorbonne in Paris.

Miss Dubiel commented that the students on the whole impressed her by their interest in French. They seem to be rather serious about it. She likes to work with students who enjoy French literature.

Her future plans are indefinite except for one: she became engaged a month ago.

MRS. MARTINSEN

An alumnus of Lew Wallace, Mrs. Iris Martinsen, the new home economics teacher says that she is "favorably impressed" by Lew Wallace.

Mrs. Martinsen received her M.A. from Valparaiso University. She enjoys water skiing, fishing, and sewing.

When asked if she had any plans for the future, Mrs. Martinsen said that she was "still deciding where I am going to sit when Wallace plays Hobart, because my daughter attends Hobart." She also has a son attending Valparaiso University.

MRS. POOGACH

Mrs. Shirley Poogach, a student teacher for Mr. Chidsey last year, returns to Wallace teaching freshman English. She attended the University of Chicago and Indiana University Northwest.

In addition to sewing and reading, Mrs. Poogach enjoys classical and popular music, naming Simon and Garfunkel and the Supremes among her favorites.

Mrs. Poogach has two children: a son, who is a freshman at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., and a daughter, who is a junior at I.U.

NEW UNIFORMS TO RESERVES

by Betty Joy

Notice anything new? Sure you have. The reserve cheerleaders show their school spirit in new uniforms.

The sweaters are still black and gold striped, but this year pantskirts are being worn. The skirts were made by Mrs. Ida Smith, an alumna of Lew Wallace.

Varsity cheerleaders are Charm Burch, Kyle Stevens, Karin Opacich, Linda Jones, Doris Hope, and Georgene Terzes.

Leading the yells for the 1969-70 season are reserves Patti Vance, Linda Hodges, Lisa Juarez, Sue Hannah, Mary Slama, and Tobey Yocum.

MR. STEWART

Hunting, fishing, and making money are some of the interests of Mr. Richard Stewart, an alumnus of Lew Wallace who is teaching Latin and English.

Mr. Stewart received an A.B. from Hope College in Michigan and a masters in Latin from the University of Michigan. He taught in other area schools such as Edison, Deep River, and Bailly and also in schools in Michigan.

His family includes his wife, five children, and a dog named "Willie." His plans for the future are "to retire as soon as possible."

Mr. Stewart finds teaching at Lew Wallace "very enjoyable" although he says it will be nice when the construction is finished.

MR. RAYNOR

Mr. Brian Raynor, a graduate of Kent State University in Kent, Ohio, is another new member of the English Department at Wallace. He is teaching freshman English.

Mr. Raynor is extremely interested in modern American authors, and enjoys all sports. He is also quite pleased with the student body at Wallace and in the general organization of the school.

MR. PARFENOFF

Transferring to Lew Wallace from Emerson is Mr. Steve Parfenoff, new Russian and Reading instructor.

Mr. Parfenoff attended Indiana University and is interested in students in general. He feels that Lew Wallace has "a very good Russian program and the best faculty in the city."

MR. KING

Mr. Howard King, who bears a striking resemblance to actor-comedian Bill Cosby, comes to the Lew Wallace Mathematics Department from Bailly Junior High School, where he taught for seven years.

A graduate of Central State College in Ohio, Mr. King also has a masters degree from Purdue University.

In his spare time, Mr. King likes to read, enjoys good music, and is an avid pro-football fan. He is married and has two sons.

MR. ORLICH

Returning to Wallace after a year at West Side High School is Mr. George Orlich. A former sponsor of the Lew Wallace Student Council, Mr. Orlich is teaching algebra and senior math.

Fads and fashions

by Nancy Hahn

"Classic-plus" is the term which can be used to describe the most recent fashions for campus and casual wear. "Classic" in a sense that these clothes retain their traditional characteristics, but are updated with the addition of the latest in styles for both boys and girls.

Some examples: for girls, the classic skirt and sweater combination has been made "now" with the arrival of sweater vests, either pullover or button-down. The vests are designed to coordinate with pleated or A-line skirts in muted plaids or "classic" navy, brown, and olive green solids. Another "plus" for the classic look: scarves to be worn around the neck, or even as belts.

For boys, slightly flared pants in glenplaid or tattersall, as well as solid colors, have been combined with the classic "V" neck sweater, again updated in vests, often belted and of a bulkier knit.

Footwear for both boys and girls is another example of the "classic" look updated. The eternal loafer has been modernized with buckles, chains, chunkier heels, and a wider toe. The "monster" shoes, popular for girls last year, have been modified somewhat into a less "clunky" shape.

Summer's gone—and with it went days at summer vacation spots, visits to foreign countries, college institutes, and the new friends made at these places. No more swimming and sitting around at the beach. Who can forget the excitement of the first man on the moon, and the odd feeling you had afterwards whenever you looked at the moon again? It was fun waiting to see the close-up pictures of Mars and seeing if there really are Martians up there!

Wallace became more involved with construction this summer, and it affects people in various ways. Freshmen watch their new school being built, but when upperclassmen see familiar landmarks being demolished, they think of it as part of their old school going down.

But now it's time to get back to work - and to have fun. There are still a lot of things to do!

Of course, you can still go to Mac's when you feel lonely and want some company. And if you can't find that certain someone you were hoping would be there, "The Clock" is the next best place to go!

Along with football games, don't forget tennis and cross country. Many of the cross country meets and tennis matches are at Gleason Park, and they can be a lot of fun. Try it!

Seniors, though you may not think something will be much fun, give it a try. Remember—this is your last time around.

Good luck and have a good year!

DECA
Senior DECA Club held elections for club officers September 5. The club's new officers for this school year are Michelle Brosky, President; Mary Kaminski, Vice-President; Chi-Chi Holt, Secretary; and Wayne Chance, Treasurer.

The club formed a Junior-Senior Activities Committee. Members are Sue Hendrickson, Carol Bracich, and Denise Meiu.

GAA
One of the activities the GAA will sponsor this year is a Spirit Stag Dance on Thursday, October 9, the eve of the Wallace-Andrean football game. Admission is 50¢.

Bowling is the first sport offered. Girls will bowl first semester to establish their averages. Second semester will be tournament bowling.

Swimming is now taking place every Monday after school.

Gymnastics will be offered again this year at Bailly beginning in October.

HOME ECONOMICS
The Lew Wallace Home Economics Club, which was organized last spring, is open to girls interested in home economics.

Membership is limited to fifteen, but any girl interested in joining may contact Miss Mary Conover or Mrs. Margaret Anderson, co-sponsors.

Short learning sessions on some phase of home economics will be held at each meeting. The club will soon have a bake sale at Penny's in the Village to raise money.

Officers for this year are: President, Debbie Ciesielski; Vice-President, Doris Binder; Secretary-Treasurer, Pam White; and Historian-Reporter, Kathy Venchurre.

LATIN CLUB
New officers were elected at the first meeting, Tuesday, September 16. They are: President, Dan Bade; Vice-President, Linda Birdwell; Secretary, Cheryl Mason; and Treasurer, Cindy Rushe.

Meetings will be held once a month and club members will once again be selling taffy apples.

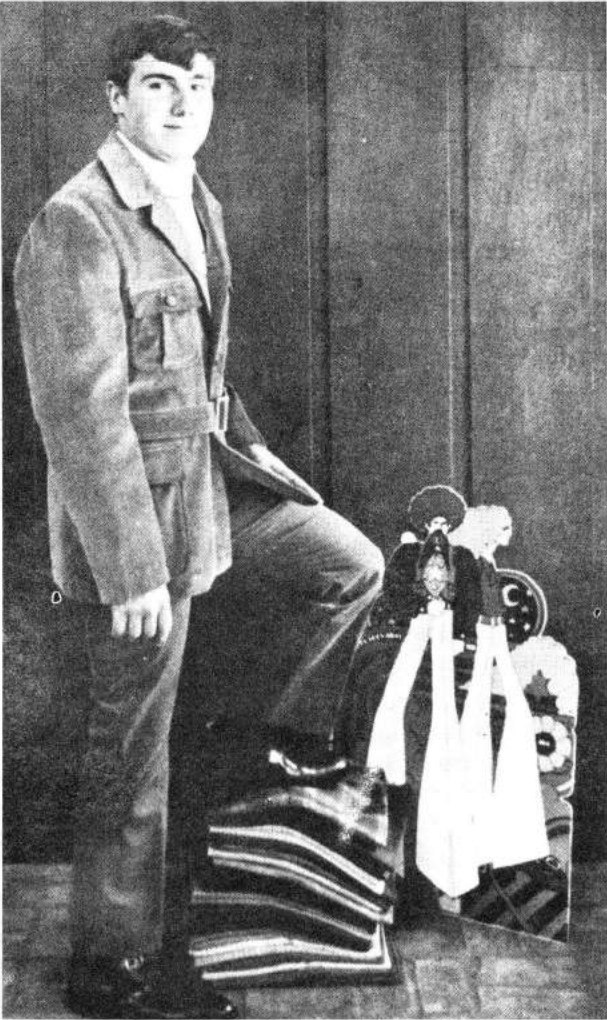

Mr. Richard Stewart, who comes to Wallace from Bailly, is replacing Mrs. Mary Shelgren as sponsor of Latin Club.

LES PARISIENS
Les Parisiens will hold initiation of new members next Tuesday, September 30, after school in room 305W.

Any student in his second year of French is eligible to join. Refreshments will be served.

Harriers Expect Winning Season

by Joe Racich

"Determination, along with a well-balanced team, should prove to be the winning combination," remarked Coach Troy about this year's cross country squad. The Harriers won their first meet, defeating River Forest, 19-36. Pierre Vuletic, Karl Kellawan, and Dale Golas placed first, second, and fourth, respectively.

This year the team is built around four returning lettermen: senior co-captain Greg Petroff, junior co-captain Pierre Vuletic, juniors Dale Golas and Bob Rodriguez. "These four show a lot of potential," remarked Coach Troy.

Coach was very pleased with the recorded times of their first meet and feels that the squad will rise above a .500 season. Coach also said that they should win a large percentage of their dual meets.

RESERVES HOLD OFF MANN, 8 - 6

by Bill Kryston

A touchdown late in the final quarter gave Wallace's reserve football team an 8-6 victory over Horace Mann last Saturday, September 20.

Hornet quarterback, sophomore Ken Bumbales, sneaked in from the one and junior Gary Gerbick successfully ran the two point conversion attempt, giving the reserves their two point margin over Mann.

Defensive standout junior Atse Krstevski, a late-comer to the team, was a thorn in Horace Mann's side all morning. Junior Terry Zeba and sophomore Rich Svetanoff were equally impressive at their positions.

Tomorrow the Hornets take on the Emerson Tornado at Bailly Junior High School at 10:00 a.m.

Paul's 'Pinions

by Paul Hernandez

"What a hassle!" With a promise to keep, a fired-up Hornet football team outlasted Horace Mann for a thrilling 18-14 victory last Friday.

In a pep rally held prior to the game, Co-Captain Tom Harris had promised to bring a win to Wallace.

Disappointed by two previous losses, the Wallace team picked itself up and played the type of ball was capable of.

An injury to senior end Jesse Bravo caused Coach Martin to shift junior John Maksimovich to end and place junior Charles Hurst at the quarterback spot. Hurst, in his first start as head signal caller, proved capable of leading the Wallace offensive attack.

Wallace's opening drive was almost thwarted until a 15-yard penalty against Mann set up the Hornets' first touchdown. Nine plays later, Hurst plunged a yard to put Wallace on the scoreboard. Powerful senior fullback Tom Galovic put the Hornets ahead at halftime, 12-8, on a 9-yard plunge.

3 MINUTES LEFT

With less than 3 minutes remaining in the game and down by 14-12, the never-say-die Hornets made a desperate attempt to move the ball but were forced to punt. Frank Naccaratto's kick, however, was fumbled and Wallace recovered on Mann's 32.

Hurst got things going on a sideline pass to halfback Ron Bailey, who went for 18 yards. With 59 seconds remaining, Tom Galovic churned 9 yards on a draw play to score his second and decisive touchdown.

TEAM EFFORT

The Hornets, in contrast to previous games, got themselves together and played like a team. Sparked by the return of tough center Gary Williams, the offensive line opened up holes for the running backs, and the defensive line hit hard and contained Mann's attack.

Unfortunately, oftentimes the linemen go unnoticed in their grueling jobs. Wallace's line, which for the most part, plays both offense and defense, is composed of Jerry Boone, Larry Kusanovich, Neil Maksimovich, Frank Naccaratto, Vince Naccaratto, Paul Smith, and Gary Williams.

Workhorse Tom Galovic played an outstanding game by running for 60 yards in 12 carries. The determined fullback appeared to be stopped short several times but great second effort carried him for large gains.

Fleet-footed Tom Harris powered Wallace's attack. Sweeping the outside, Harris gained 70 yards in 18 carries.

Be sure you come see the "Hustlin' Hornets" sock it to Emerson tonight and bring back a Homecoming victory!

One thousand miles is a long way to "travel" during the summer. Ask junior Pierre Vuletic. Pierre ran 1,000 miles and thus became a member of the exclusive 1,000-mile Club.

Pierre, a track and cross country runner, is only the second person at Wallace to ever accomplish this feat. First to run 1,000 miles was 1967 graduate Jim Stochel.

How can anyone top a 1,000 mile run? Pierre optimistically plans to run 3,000 miles this coming summer!
